The Del Monte Properties Company is proud to announce that

THE NEW TAP ROOM

at the

DEL MONTE LODGE

is NOW OPEN

A MUSEUM OF WESTERN GOLF

The new taproom is not just another "decorators' dream." It is much more than that. On the great golden oak walls will be hung hundreds of pictures, magazine and newspaper articles, testimonials and trophies, depicting the history of Peninsula golf from 1897 until 1950. This history is in truth the history of Western Golf and is, along with the Peninsula's 4 championship courses, the reason why the region is referred to by sports writers and editors everywhere as the "Golf Capital of the World."

Del Monte was the first course west of the Mississippi and was built only nine years after the first course in America. All the golfing great and near great, pictures, stories and trophies, from 1897 on, have been assembled, framed and placed upon the taproom walls.

The walls are lined with deep, comfortable red leather sofas and banquettes. Large view windows have been added, plus acoustical ceiling, indirect lighting and remote control music.

Harry, George, Rudy, Roy and Louis, the five stewards who have been at the Lodge so long, will answer your questions and will provide the best in wine chemistry.

The Golfer's Luncheon is only $1.25 and we will continue, of course, to serve the Del Monte ounce and a quarter of the best liquors available.

You are cordially invited to visit the Lodge soon.

Attention Landlords

"Operation Housing" for 1950 at the Naval School is well underway this week with over 100 prospective students already "housed down," according to Naval School authorities.

This means that approximately 300 additional incoming students will be looking for rentals between now and the opening of the 1950 term on Feb. 20. It is anticipated that the new class will number over 500 students, with 100 of that number living in quarters at the Naval School.

Housing Officers in charge of the task of helping new officers find accommodations report that the most urgent need at present is for three-bedroom houses, both furnished and unfurnished, at reasonable rentals. Two-bedroom houses are next in demand to meet the needs of navy families. One-bedroom houses in this area are considerably more numerous and therefore less in demand.

Landlords who have apartments and houses to rent are urged to list them with the Housing Office at the Naval School by phoning Monterey 3111, extension 477, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Heading up the housing activity for the school is Lt. Comdr. J. E. Turner, a graduate of the 1947 General Line School class, who will be enrolled in the postgraduate Aerological Engineering Dept. when a new class convenes in July. Assisting Lt. Comdr. Turner are Lt. Comdr., G. F. Silvani, Lt. C. W. Smith, Lt. (jg) J. C. Norton, Lt. (jg) C. E. Kingsbury and Lt. (jg) Jack Harris.

ARMY - NAVY OFFICERS ASKED TO SCOUT MEETING

Don Gilchrist, president of the local Monterey bay area Boy Scout council, made known today that invitations have been extended to the following to be guests at the seventeenth annual meeting of the council, which will be held at the officers' club, U.S. Naval School, Monterey, Saturday: Captains Thos. J. Casey, Paul D. Stroup, H. T. Stanley, of the U.S. Navy; Major-General Robert T. Frederick, Brigadier-General Gerald J. Higgins, and Colonel Charles H. Barnwell, of the U.S. Army, and their ladies. The affair, which has become one of the outstanding adult social events of the year in the counties of Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz, will start with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Jack Dougherty, of Monterey, general chairman, urges all who wish to attend to purchase tickets in advance from General E. G. Chapman, Carmel; Wes Hoxie, Salinas; Fran Petersen, Gabilan; H. K. Schipper, Hollister; Mark Kerna, Watsonville; Colonel John Cook, Santa Cruz, or they may be ordered direct from the office of the scout council, Boy Scouts of America, Salinas, Calif. Tickets are $2.75 each, which covers all charges.

TRAVEL EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Robert "Bob" McDonald, Monterey, are on an extended trek east; a combination business and pleasure trip. They expect to be gone a month. While in the East they will visit Bob's uncle, H. B. Crossman, formerly of Pebble Beach, and well known to many peninsulites.

Discerning Discs

By HENRY DUNAKIN

Several months ago, this column announced a newly formed Haydn Society and its first release: "Missa Solemnis in B Flat Major." At that time the only criticism of such a splendid undertaking lay in the fact that it was not to be made available to the general public. Evidently the society has realized its mistake, for now it has released to our dealers seven symphonies by Joseph Haydn. Of this grouping, only No. 13 has been heretofore recorded.

The first LP disc contains three. The Symphony No. 1, composed in 1759, is merely a divertimento in three movements. The orchestration, naturally, was of dimensions hardly beyond that of a chamber ensemble. The harpsichord was employed for harmonic continuity. No. 13, while not a great masterpiece, is totally charming; but No. 28 belongs on every shelf. It is here that Haydn's usage of the Minuet and Trio first find solid play.

The second disc is comprised of Nos. 31 and 34. Haydn has grown considerably by this time. No. 31 makes for more than pleasant listening, but No. 34, the "Hornsignal," is a bright light. The work is built around the fireworks of four horns. The writer

Studebaker for 1950

Styled ahead for years to come

From gleaming spinner straight through to flight-streamed rear fenders, the low-swung 1950 Studebaker is a symphony of power and luxury in every sweeping line.

New in wheelbase length and over-all length, the 1950 Studebaker is lavishly roomy and richly appointed.

Its distinctive huge sweeps of window and windshield glass assure you the extra safety of extra vision.

It's new in handling ease and riding ease--with a new Studebaker-designed self-stabilizing coil-spring suspension up front, improved symmetrically centered Studebaker variable ratio steering, extra low-pressure tires--and a balance of weight that assures road-hugging sure-footedness mile after mile on straightaway or curves.

has heard little, if any, music that makes such demands on a combination of this instrument. To continue, the Symphony opens with a tutti from the four brasses, moves onward in variations fashion that leads to a fairly sweeping Adagio, to be broken by a daring Minuet... and ends with a Presto that includes a restatement of the introductory horn passages. A splendid work, and beautifully performed!

Nos. 44 and 48 are contained in the third disc of the series. From here on out, the composer had mastered his harmonic structures so well that he completely dispensed with the harpsichord as his crutch. In addition, during this period, Haydn was in the happy position of knowing that his music would be played by top-notch performers and that his listeners would be appreciative and discriminating.

These much-needed representations were recorded in Austria by the Vienna Symphony Orchestra and are played under the knowing direction of Jonathan Sternberg. Slated for future release by the society are the "Lord Nelson Mass," "Missa Cellensis in C Major," and "The Creation."

Tells Of Guide Dog Training

To those persons whose eyesight is unimpaired, the relationship between a blind man and his seeing-eye dog is both a touching and an awesome example of dependability and confidence. Mrs. Elizabeth C. Boyer who raises guide dogs in her Carmel Valley home last week told members of the Carmel Valley Women's Club something about the months of work that go into the selection and training of guide dogs.

Slightly more than two decades ago saw the introduction of the first seeing-eye dog into the United States from Switzerland, Mrs. Boyer said. She pointed out that the dogs used for guiding the blind need not be of pedigreed stock, but all dogs must possess the true appearance of the pedigreed German Shepherd dog, or the other breeds used. The German Shepherd has proved most worthy of guide work, she said, although other breeds are satisfactory.

"Being a breeder," she told members of the club, "a great deal of studying is required in order to try to select the correct male mate for the brood bitch chosen as the mother of the litter. Both sire and dam must have good body structure... They must have an intelligent, alert mind, the erect ear carriage, and the extreme quality of good temperament. The dog shouldn't be shy toward strangers or noises, nor should it be nervous."

"Regardless of the extreme care taken in selecting the parents, it does not necessarily mean that out of the litter there will be produced a puppy possessing all the qualities required of a dog for the guiding of a blind person."

Mrs. Boyer said she never tries to choose a prospective puppy until the litter is about three months old. After selecting the puppy, she places it in the home of some member of the California 4-H Club, the members of which have raised 130 dogs to date. During the 14 months while in its 4-H Club home, the dog's anticipated good qualities may change, thereby disqualifying it for its future work, Mrs. Boyer explained.

"It takes an average of one month for a blind person to learn the use of his guide at a school. He must be taught how to direct the dog and how to interpret the sign language that comes through the U-shaped leather harness handle. He also learns the care of his dog," she said.

"The master directs the dog by oral command - left, right or forward. The signals which come from the dog to the master through the harness handle warn him of everything."

Before the blind student comes to the school the dog will have spent three months being taught its lessons, guided by a sighted instructor, said Mrs. Boyer, who added that it takes four years to develop a qualified instructor.

"Believe it or not," she said, "there are no two dogs of the same breed that have identical intelligence, personalities or temperament. Therefore the training methods applied to one dog for the proper results cannot be applied to another in the exact manner. It is the trainer's responsibility to study the individual temperament of each animal, and train that animal accordingly."

Are you looking for an interesting hobby? The Monterey Peninsula

Evening College offers you the opportunity to learn leathercraft in classes conducted on Mondays and Wednesdays in Art Room 4 on the college campus, 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. Mrs. Homyne Wetmore, the instructor, encourages her students to use their own ideas in design and use of leathers instead of following long-established stereotyped patterns. Each student learns the techniques necessary for the development of his ideas as they are required. Several of the students have come up with new and different ideas.

PANCHO GONZALES JACK KRAMER

To Play Wednesday In Carmel

The most intriguing professional tennis competition of all time is coming to Carmel next Wednesday when promoter Bobby Riggs presents Jack Kramer, world professional champion, against Pancho Gonzales, U.S. Amateur Champion, at the Carmel High School gymnasium.

Ever since Riggs, himself two-time national champion and current U.S. pro king-pin, managed to lure Gonzales from amateur competition, there has been a growing army of sports fans eager to see these two titans of the court smash at each other.

Gonzales, who won the national title for the second straight time at Forest Hills, New York, in grueling sets with Ted Schroeder, will pit his power-driven service against Kramer's all-round court magic.

Riggs had to go all the way to bring Gonzales into the fiscal fold. He guaranteed the American-born Mexican $60,000 against 30 percent of the gross, to turn professional. Last year, in his first tour as a money winner, Kramer earned $120,000. He is working for 25 percent of the gross this time.

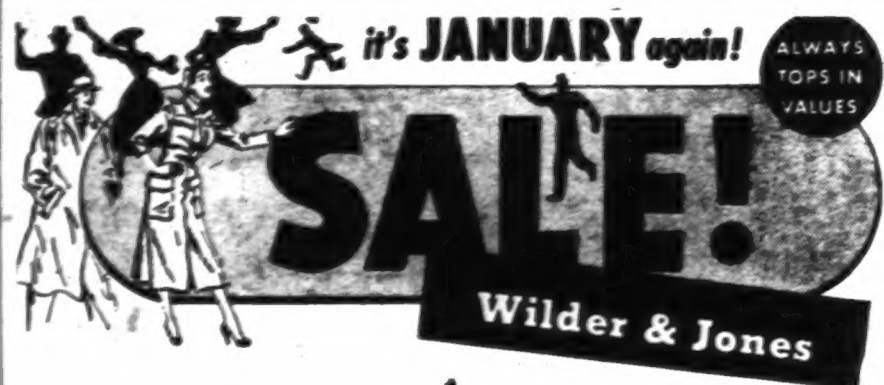

Carmel is the smallest town that they will play on their tour and the show is being presented locally through the efforts of two local residents. Captain William Donnelly, Jr., is a long-time personal friend of Riggs and Paul Clark, of Carmel, is guaranteeing all expenses.

With play starting at 8 p.m., spectators will see the whole troupe in action. Frankie Parker, twice National Singles Champion and Pancho Segura, colorful Ecuadorian, will start the evening's festivities followed by the feature attraction of Kramer and Gonzales.

After a short rest, the players pair off and play an exhibition doubles match.

Tickets are on sale at various merchants about the peninsula, or a call to John Gardner, tennis professional at Del Monte Lodge, will garner a reservation.

FRIENDS HEAR ABOUT GOSLIN-DANIELS NUPTIALS

The news of the Dec. 6 marriage of Marjorie Ellen Goslin and Charles Meldrum Daniels has just reached their local friends. The wedding took place at the Second Congregational Church in Marblehead, Mass. They will make their home in Carmel.

The bride is the daughter of William J. Goslin, of Boston, and the late Mrs. Goslin, and her uncle is James Tower, prominent New England sportsman. The new Mrs. Daniels is a graduate of Columbia University and Boston University. She is well known in the public relations field in Boston and New York, having acted as director of the Greater Boston United Service Organizations; public relations director of the Deaconess Hospital of Boston; chairwoman of the Publicity Committee of the Advertising Club of Boston; officer in the Tub Thumpers of America; member of the Republican Club of Boston, New England Press Women's Association and the Public Relations Society of America.

Mr. Daniels, who made his home on the Monterey Peninsula until a year ago, is the great grandson of Daniel Webster. He holds one of the greatest athletic records in history, having held 10 world swimming records at one time and 20 international records. He held three Olympic records, and for 14 years was never defeated in competition, and retired undefeated. He developed the American crawl stroke. Mr. Daniels is a golf architect of some note, having designed a number of eastern courses. As a golfer he has held five course records and still plays to a two handicap. He is a big game hunter and is a well known bridge player, holding a Masters.

The couple will leave Boston the latter part of this week for Mexico where they will spend two months, and from there will journey to Carmel around April 15 to take up residence.

PEBBLE BEACH NOTES . . .

The Monterey Peninsula social calendar was a crowded one last week since Bing Crosby's $10,000 National Pro-Amateur Championship got underway at Pebble Beach on Friday. Out-of-town guests arrived in droves. Mr. and Mrs. Christopher A. Buckley, Jr., honored the Randolph Scotts with a cocktail party. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Tevis held a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ingersoll, of Philadelphia. The Ingersolls were the house guests of the Samuel F. B. Moses.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Coleman, Jr. hosted a large dinner dance at The Beach Club in honor of their house guests, the John Fells, of Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boit Morse planned a Thursday dinner at their Pebble Beach home for Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ingersoll, Mr. and Mrs. John Fell, Roger Lapham and John T. de Blois Wack.

The Edison A. Holts invited a group of friends for cocktails and supper Thursday evening in their Carmel Valley ranch home.

Friday's calendar included a dinner to which the Tirey L. Fords invited a group of eastern visitors. The Robert Stantons also held a dinner in their Carmel Valley home, and that same evening the Frank Works entertained with a supper dance for their house guests: Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Vaillancourt, Edward Carvarvon Flynn and Edwin Earl, of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Warner Edmonds, Jr., of Santa Barbara; and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, of Houston.

Saturday the Samuel F. B. Moses honored Mr. and Mrs. Bing Crosby and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ingersoll with a dinner party. Also on Saturday, the William L. Hudsons invited a group of friends for cocktails and supper to honor their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ford and Mark Elworthy, of San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hyde, of Woodside.

Sunday noon the John Boit Moses held their annual open house for visiting golfers, and that evening the Monterey Peninsula Country Club was the scene of the "Award Dinner," a stag affair for which Bing Crosby is host and to which invitations were much coveted, since he brings talent from Hollywood to entertain his guests.

BAGLEY'S ENTERTAIN

Colonel and Mrs. A. Gordon Bagley entertained a group of friends at a cocktail party in their Carmel home Sunday afternoon.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. Lewis, from New Mexico, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McFall, and Mrs. Frederick Dell, of San Antonio, house guest of Colonel and Mrs. Howard St. Masters.

ST. JAMES WOMEN INSTALL OFFICERS

Installation of officers of the Women's Auxiliary of St. James Episcopal Church was conducted by the vicar, the Reverend Vincent H. Coletta, in a special church service held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 11. Miss Mary Yates, president of the Guild Auxiliary of St. Marys Episcopal Church, Pacific Grove, presented the ladies for installation.

tion at St. James; (2) The first of the Auxiliary monthly projects, a food sale, will take place later in the month with Mrs. Helen Zanetta as chairman.

HORSEMEN MEET MONDAY

The Carmel Valley Horsemen's Association will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at The Carousel in the valley.

PIPE LINES

Grow With Population

Beneath the surface of the ground there is a vast network of pipes of many sizes which carry water from its source to every building in our city. As the population grows, as new homes are built, and new sub-divisions created, as new industries move in, and old ones grow larger, the pipe lines for water must be lengthened and extended in new directions to meet the increased requirements.

During 1949 your water company spent many thousands of dollars for the expansion of its distribution system - extending lines, increasing pipe diameters, exchanging old pipe for new. Our engineers are constantly at work, planning immediate improvements, and peering into the future to be ready for the needs to come.

4 WAY TIE IN CROSBY TOURNAMENT

The 18th green at Pebble Beach was slightly crowded Sunday evening. Four golfers: Sam Snead, Smiley Quick, Jackie Burke and Dave Douglas, each came in with a total of 214 in the Bing Crosby Invitational Pro Amateur Tournament and split four ways the approximately $5,000 in prize money for the first four places. There will be no playoff.

Snead had a chance to get first place money all to himself, but missed two eight foot putts on the 17th and 18th greens.

In the pro amateur department, Ralph Blomquist-Bud Moe and Marty Furgol-Don Edwards divided first prize money, while the combination of Douglas and Johnny Weismuller took second place.

Little Ben Hogan finished out of the money with 223, but drew a large gallery all through the tournament. High point of his Pebble Beach round was an eagle three on the tough par five sixth hole.

Hogan had confessed that his leg was bothering him.

Hogan and Snead will meet Wednesday in Los Angeles to see who wins the L.A. Open. Golfdom's two top men tied for first place in the event last week, but decided to postpone the playoff until after the Crosby Tournament. Hogan plans to play in the Phoenix Open in February and will take "a good long rest" after that. He has not fully recovered from the effects of an automobile accident a year ago.

The crowd at the three-day tournament has been estimated at 15,000, which is 3,000 more than last year's attendance - a record in itself. When the sun came out on Sunday, the Pebble Beach course was milling with spectators, many of whom did more walking than the golfers - their automobiles being parked far far away.

The tournament grossed approximately $32,000 compared to last year's $24,000.

Bing Crosby is seen here with Mayor William Chapman, of Pacific Grove, at the opening Saturday night of Crosby Hall, the PG youth center which was partially financed through funds donated by Crosby to the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest. MRS. BALDORF ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Charles Baldorf, of Pacific Grove, entertained Monday with a canasta luncheon party for Mrs. Roy Lewis, who is visiting here from Raton, New Mexico. Table arrangements were in a color scheme of pink and blue.

A guest gift and high score gifts were awarded. Among the guests were the Mesdames A. Gordon Bagley, A. A. MacCall, Gerald Duncan, Kenneth O. Dills, Duncan Murray and J. Hayter.

HOBBY SHOW

A combination Hobby Show and Silver Tea will be held Friday, Jan. 27, by the Pacific Grove Women's Civic Club. Ladies from other parts of the peninsula are encouraged to exhibit examples of their hobbies in the show, according to Mrs. John McCrae, chairman. Chairman of the tea is Mrs. G. W. Simpson. Inquiries may be directed to Mrs. McCrae, telephone 2-1744, or Mrs. John Read, 2-1682.

WHO IS IT?

L. M. "Sparky" Pollard, manager of the California Department of Employment, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" Although his family lived in Southern California, Mr. Pollard was born in British Columbia, Canada, receiving his early schooling in Pasadena and San Pedro. He graduated with an education major from Santa Barbara State College in 1931 in the depths of the depression and worked for a while with Standard Oil Company. Later he took a position with the State Relief Administration, which eventually sent him to Salinas, and in 1940 he moved to "this good place to live," the Monterey Peninsula. He has been with the Department of Employment since moving here, except for three and one-half years in the Army Air Corps, where he started out as an enlisted man and ended up as a statistical officer through OCS. In 1947, he married the former Frances Grath, of Palo Alto and Honolulu, who had taught in Monterey schools for 11 years. He started out in his job here as an apprentice interviewer and was named manager of the employment service division in July of 1947. Exactly one year ago, he assumed management of combined operations at the Monterey office: In charge of employment service and unemployment insurance. He is a member of the Lions Club and, as for sports, plays golf now and then. A question regarding his hobbies brought this puzzling answer from Mr. Pollard: "I do some star-gazing now and then." His answer was puzzling but true. He reports that during the depression an interval between jobs left him too much time on his hands. So he proceeded to build a 100-power telescope, which he keeps in his back yard. One can think of worse hobbies than star-gazing.

Doin's An' Stuff

Dear Boys and Girls:

The time has come, the walrus said, to talk of many things. This time it's the last meeting of the Tularcitos School Board when the board, the architect, Robert Stanton, and some 25 of Mr. and Mrs. Interested Public, gathered to clarify the building situation up to date. Since it now appears that we are to have a structurally adequate building which will fall well within the $100,000 bond issue voted for last February, it behooves us all to work together constructively, criticizing only when and if necessary.

Mr. Stanton has said that he has never known a contractor to be as cooperative as Mr. Carlson has been. One hears only good about Mr. Carlson's former activities, so in this pleasant aura of confidence let us all watch the first dirt fly on the seven acre tract behind the Airway Strip around Feb. 1. The job of Inspector has not yet been filled and applications are being received now by the architect's office in Carmel. The next meeting of the board falls on Tuesday, Feb. 14, Valentine Day, an auspicious beginning...no?

The week was pretty well filled up with meetings and stuff: Monday, Teenagers; Tuesday, Business and Professional Association; Wednesday, Tularcitos Mothers Meeting and Folk Dancing at The Lodge in Robles under the direction of Juan Alvarez; Thursday, Chinese dinner night at The Carousel, where not only does Chinese atmosphere prevail, but wonderful Chinese food is prepared by an equally wonderful Chinese chef.

The long lamented and much heralded action on and about our road has begun in earnest on three fronts. The county is busy relaying water pipes, the telephone company resetting posts and the state's choice, Mr. Meohran's boys, are using the biggest, most modern road building equipment available. Watching the activity from a perfect vantage point directly above, on the detour road, made me wonder how the Romans had fashioned their still usable roads in Britain and elsewhere in Europe more than 2,000 years ago. Men must have dominated that picture as machines do this one. The new road presents so many beautiful views of the valley that a few lookouts would be a welcome precaution to those of us unable to resist looking even though our stomachs jump into our throats while doing so. The mountains topped by snow make an unusual background for the ploughed and tamed fields already beginning to be dotted by gentle greens.

There are a lot of rumors rumbling around about horses and horsemanship. In April there will be two pack trips, one for the more intrepid males, and one for young and older females, both to the coast. It sounds exciting and the Carmel Valley Horsemanship Association can be contacted for more details. The monthly meeting of this association takes place at Holman's Guest Ranch Monday, Jan. 30, and plans for the dinner-dance Feb. 11 will be completed. Another horse whisper revolves about plans for an arena in the shopping area where jumping classes, eastern and western horsemanship classes and shows will be given under the experienced hands of Jack Cutler, who helps the Bobs at The Carousel.

Too bad the Sam Brandts couldn't find time to continue editing Ed Haber's Valley News. Last week's issue was brought forth by Rod Eckert and the master's wife, the master being abed with that ole debbil flu. Advertising Hennessey was similarly involved so that Rod doubled several times and the results were good.

Cass Parsons, Barbara Porter and Barbara Stean journey into Carmel weekly to a class in woodcraft. Although Ralph could provide tools and instruction, he wouldn't have that subtle but powerful discipline teachers in schools are able to imbue in us despite our years away from them... The journeys to Monterey by Robinson and Jones, ceramic sub-surrealists, haven't begun as yet, but the teacher has been heard to lament their absence. It's good to see Harry Tanous back again on his much cussed and discussed feet, and we hope his preoccupation with reading about the care of the dog will soon abate.

Every garden has its serpent and our valley is no exception. Our serpent has no decent respect for seasons, on the contrary, when more self-respecting plants and animals hibernate in the winter, our serpent, the oak that poisons, flourishes. There is a new treatment, a variation on the histamine theme, for this scurrious plague. It's both a preventive and a cure that seems to be effective. I am told that the Indians who roamed these regions employed the use of two native plants, the pigweed used as a poultice, and wormwood, used internally. If the new drug fails, I shall try the later remedy and hope that it doesn't taste as bitter as the well worn cliché has it. It seems to me that a booklet on this s.p. plague might well be given by the valley's leading realtors when those final papers are being signed--and I will gladly volunteer to do the first draft... See you next week... if I still can.

PENINSULA TO SEE CONCERT BAND

The San Francisco State College Concert Band, featuring George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," will be introduced to the Monterey Peninsula in the evening of Feb. 1 at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium. The 83-piece band will also appear in a morning concert Feb. 2 for the music students of Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey high schools at Pacific Grove.

Personnel of the band, which is composed entirely of music students at the college, 80 percent of whom desire to be music teachers, have elected to tour various California cities between semesters on their free time. Last year the band made a similar tour, playing to approximately 25,000 persons.

Lee Chrisman, chairman of the Music Department at the college, is conductor of the concert band. Edwin Kruth is the associate conductor.

Warenskjold "Captivates"

A festive audience was gathered last Saturday for a completely captivating evening, when the Carmel Music Society presented Dorothy Warenskjold in recital.

Miss Warenskjold is endowed with a highly sensitive response to the poetic text and an ability to float her voice which closely resembles the art of bel canto.

The opening selections were three gay Shakespeare songs impeccably and vividly executed and a fourth of a more sombre nature which somewhat prepared one for the leader next on the program. These songs of Brahms and Richard Strauss ranged from very sad to bright and gay, showing us a truly accomplished artist. Her sense of lieder is in the true meistersinger style, that is matching the tone to the word; however one feels her voice is better suited to an airier or more liquid type of song.

The highlight of the evening was in the presentation of five Debussy songs. Her mastery of French brought each word clearly to the ears of the listener. Each song she interpreted seemed a little drama taking place in its own poetic climate. Her fine awareness as to the composers' intention is not to be overlooked.

The audience was charmed with six American folk songs, including one written by Miss Warenskjold. Each song spilled over with American spirit for she is an American and her superior rendering of Red Rosey, an Appalachian Mountain folk song, is ample proof of that spirit.

Miss Warenskjold kept the interest of the audience that evening, not only through her vocal abilities but also through her quiet charm, warmly projected over the footlights. One was left with the feeling of having made a wonderful friend.

Why Buy a "PIG-IN-A-POKE"?

When Famous Brand Names Assure You of Established Quality and Value

Taking a chance with a product of unknown origin is like buying a "pig-in-a-poke." You may get the quality and service you hope for . . . then again, you may not.

Most people can't afford to gamble with their hard-earned money. That's why it is so important to always look for the maker's brand name on a product before you buy it.

When a manufacturer clearly identifies his product with his brand name, and advertises it, you can be sure that he accepts responsibility for its performance. He cannot afford to do otherwise and remain in business.

Whether you are buying a familiar "convenience" item or making a substantial investment in something you have never used before, you get a nice comfortable feeling from the knowledge that your purchase bears a well-known name or label.

The famous brand names that surround you, year in and year out, in the stores of the Monterey Peninsula merchants have won their places by earning public confidence . . . by identifying products that live up to their makers' claims, at prices that represent established value.

So when you buy, choose the brands of reliable makers . . . makers who build their reputations by standing back of the products that bear their names and trade-marks.

HEADQUARTERS
FOR GLASS

Once Upon a Time

By Alexander Victor

There is a conspiracy against me in the SPECTATOR office. Last week I gave the formula for the boiling of a soft boiled egg. That was for the benefit of husbands whose wives had been out shopping the day before and were too weary to make breakfast. I wrote it out very carefully, but the editor killed it. NOW THIS IS A PAID ADVERTISEMENT. Instead of putting the egg in boiling water, you put the egg in COLD water. Get this straight, because it's very important. Put the EGG in cold water. Then put the pan over the fire. The minute that the water is boiling, take the pan off the fire. Then you will have a soft boiled EGG that tastes better than any soft boiled egg you ever had before. Try it yourself and see if I am not right. This way you do not have to watch a clock or anything else. I know that I will receive hundreds of letters from grateful husbands for this invention of mine. Maybe even a few wives will thank me.

And that is off my chest. If the editor kills this again, there will be a bit of news in the morning paper about a dead editor. And like the good Indian being a dead Indian -- that holds good for editors too.

This one happened in Antwerp, Belgium. There is as often in Europe a restaurant, where there are chess tables and the customers spend the afternoons playing chess and sipping wine. And a darned good idea, if you want my opinion. At any rate, I was in this restaurant in Belgium seated at one of the chess tables, pushing the pieces around and wishing that something would happen. In came a very handsome young man and he asked if I cared to play a game. I told him I would be very glad to do so, and he sat down and we started to play. After a few moves, I was able to capture one of his bishops. "Oh well," he said, "That's nothing." Pretty soon I captured one of his castles. I felt apologetic and told him so. He said, "That's quite all right with me." So I put him down for a rank amateur and sort of lost interest in the game.

Pretty soon I captured his queen. I was ready to throw the game when he said, "Just a minute, I will checkmate you in three moves." "That," I said, "I would like to see." So he showed me. I was checkmated in three moves. "Pardon me," I said, "What is your name?" "My name," he replied, "is Casablanca." I had played chess with the world's champion chess player.

But what of it? I have had more fights in my life than anyone I know of and never won a single one of them. Who cares? It isn't whether you lost or won, it's how you fought.

This next one happened in London. There was a man arrested for killing a man and robbing him of one bob. The judge said, "How could you possibly kill a man for one bob?" "Well," said the prisoner, "It's this here way, Judge, a bob here and a bob there, it all counts up."

I think that's all for today. This column has taken me exactly ten minutes by the clock.

I am mad at the staff of THE SPECTATOR.

YOUR CONGRESSMAN REPORTS

The preliminaries are just about over in the second half of the 81st Congress and we are about to buckle down to a regular work schedule.

Not that we have been just resting on the oars, but at the start of every Congress there is a certain amount of organization work which has to be done.

For example, it's the constitutional duty of the president to report on what is known as the "state of the union," the country's economic condition, and then submit the budget for the operation of the government for the next fiscal year.

President Truman came before a joint session of the house and senate to deliver his state of the union message. He looked rested after his Florida vacation, although I still maintain he'd get more vitamins from our California sunshine.

I think if you had to give a one-word description of Harry Truman, the best word would be "humaness." He is the kind of a man you'd like to have for your next door neighbor and exchange small talk with when the two of you were out mowing the back lawn.

That's my feeling toward Harry Truman, the man, although I have differed with him on many occasions on political matters and expect to do so in the future. His frailty as president, I think, is in the selection of some of his advisers and the taking of their advice.

On the whole, I want to say that the president's state of the union message was a good exposition of his political philosophies, but I seriously doubt that he is going to get his own political party in Congress to go along with him.

There isn't a chance, for instance, for the approval of the Brannan farm plan. No one yet has been able to give even the haziest estimate of what it would cost. The magician hasn't come along who can give farmers high prices for their products and at the same time give the consumer cheap food.

The best indication that the Brannan farm plan is doomed to failure is that it is opposed by Senator Clinton D. Anderson, of New Mexico, Secretary Brannan's predecessor, as secretary of agriculture.

The split between Secretary Brannan and Senator Anderson over farm policy is a good example of the differences existing in the majority party and which makes it difficult for the party to put over President Truman's legislative program. Senator Anderson is quite an influence in his party as he is the chairman of the senate campaign committee.

I doubt that a serious effort will be made to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Law as proposed by the president. Nothing has been offered in its place, even though it is conceded by every fair minded member of congress that some amendments would be desirable and improve the law. But the American people never again are going to accept the reckless and arrogant domination of the American economy by a few selfish so-called labor leaders!

Our agricultural committee has swung into action. Right now we're considering changes in the 1949 cotton acreage allotment act because of complaints that the law has caused inequities. That law, by the way, is the cause of further controversy between Senator Anderson and Secretary Brannan. Senator Anderson wrote the law which Secretary Brannan claims is too complicated. Senator Anderson's friends say the law is all right if Secretary Brannan would administer it properly.

PORTRAIT LECTURE

The Carmel Adult School announces a demonstration lecture next Wednesday at Sunset School by Patricia Cunningham. The Carmel artist will paint a portrait from a model in the manner of the modern school of Paris.

REALTY BOARD HOLDS FIRST 1950 MEETING

Major Ray Gibbs, president, Monterey Peninsula Realty Board, at the first 1950 meeting recently held at the Mission Inn, outlined the full program of activities placed on the board's agenda for the coming year.

President Gibbs placed particular emphasis on "brokers' cooperation," complimenting members on their unity of thought and cooperative attitude.

Wright S. Fisher, board secretary, was authorized to join the Secretaries' Council of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, a move which will more closely tie in local affairs with the national Real Estate picture.

Guest speaker Fred Diefendorf, local advertising and public relations counsel (one time public relations director of the Real Estate Association of San Francisco), defined public relations generally as an "... interpretation of the actions, ideas and services of a client to the various groups of the public interested in or affected by the client," with details of its special application in the real estate profession.

Chairman Edward Whitaker, education committee, announced a series of fourteen lectures, titled "Real Estate Seminar," starting Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m., at the Pacific Grove High School.
